Specification for Induction Type, Oscillating Desk or Pedestal Fans:

1. The fans covered by this specification are required for use on :—
   1. 220 volts, single phase, 25 cycles
   2. 220 volts, single phase, 50 cycles and 50 cycles.
   3. 110 volts, single phase 25 cycles.

2. They shall be manufactured in accordance with the latest B.S.I. Specification No. 380 and shall fully conform to the general specification given below :—

3. The tenders shall be accompanied with descriptive literature, illustrations or photographs of the fans and regulaters offered without which no tender will be considered. Tenderers shall fill in the accompanying data form and submit it along with their tenders.

4. This specification applies to desk type fans suitable for use under Indian Climatic conditions.

5. Quality of Materials and Workmanship :—
All materials used in the construction of the equipment forming part of the contract are to be of the best quality and workmanship suitable for continuous operation in the tropical climate of India, where the ambient temperature may be taken as 50°C.

6. It is to be noted that the insulating materials used shall be of class "A". The fans shall have the highest class finish and shall be smoothly painted with three coats and finished in best quality hard stoved black or dark green cellulose enamel.

7. Interchangeability : -Corresponding parts of similar fans, regulators, etc,, are to be absolutely interchangeable in every respect.

8. Motor :—The motor shall be of the induction type and totally enclosed, wound for the voltage and frequency specified.

9. Blades and Guards :—The blades shall be of polished brass lacquered or steel copper oxyd sed or any other approved material, shaped to give maximum volumetric efficiency, thoroughly stiff and well balanced to obviate troubles due to vibration. The fan shall have four blades mounted on a suitable spider. A strong and efficient brass or copper oxydised guard, with rings reasonably close to each other constructed of wire of sufficient thickness shall be fitted to prevent accidental contact with the blades.

10. Bearings and Lubrication :—The bearings shall be of the ball or roller type mounted in suitable housings: The bearings are to be self-lubricating by means of self-feeding grease and should be easily renewable. The fan should be so designed as to provide an efficient and simple lubricating system which does not require to be oiled or greased for long periods.

11. Shafts :—The shaft shall be of mild steel and of sufficient diameter to prevent bending under all ordinary conditions of working and rough usage. The design of the fans shall be such that they are reasonably silent in operation and no grease or oil shall splash or be thrown out.

12. Starting and Regulating Switch :—The fan is to be supplied with a separate starting and regulating switch self contained and fixed in the pedestal. The regulator should provide for at least three speeds, with an "off" position. The switch handle of approved insulating material shall be so placed that it can be easily and conveniently manipulated. The design shall be such that if the regulator is left in any position for an indefinite period, the temperature rise in any part thereof shall not exceed the limit specified in B. S. I. No. 380.

13. Starting :—The fan shall be capable of starting up from rest when 80 per cent of the rated voltage is applied to the terminals.

14. Extent of Work :—Each fan shall be complete with all the necessary fittings and accessories including the regulator.

15. Pedestal and Trunnion :—The pedestal and trunnion shall be of good quality malleable iron or cast steel of robust construction. The fan shall be readily adjustable for operation as either desk or bracket fan, and must have a wide range of both swivel and trunnion movement. All clamping devices shall be of strong and simple design, and so arranged that they shall not work loose owing to vibration or any other cause.

16. Oscillating Mechanism :—The fan shall be provided with an oscillating mechanism which shall not absorb more than 5 per cent of the rated electrical input.

17. Name Plate :—Each fan shall carry a metal name-plate properly riveted, or securely fixed and distinctly marked with the following particulars :—

1. Name of manufacture
2. Serial Number
3. Type Mark
4. Voltage Range
5. Frequency

18. Tests : —The fans shall be tested before despatch in accordance with B. S I. No. 380 and copies of test certificate signed by a responsible officer of the manufacturers shall be submitted.

19. Should the fans not conform to the requirements of this specification or should any fan or its fittings fail to stand satisfactorily the tests specified above such fan or fans shall be rejected.

20. Guarantee :—A guarantee shall be furnished for the satisfactory operation and also for free replacement of such of the parts that prove faulty by reason of inherent defects in design or workmanship or material within one year after their receipt.

21. Drawings, etc. : —Outline plans giving all important overall dimensions of the fan and regulator, showing details of the lubricating system, etc., shall be submitted with the tender.

APPENDIX.

The following schedule shall be filled in while tendering :—

Specification for Induction Type Ceiling Fans with Regulators.

1. The fans covered by this specification are required for use on :—

1 220 Volts, single phase, 25 cycles.
2 230 Volts, single phase, 50 cycles and 50 cycles.
3 110 Volts, single phase, 25 cycles.

2. They shall be manufactured in accordance with the latest B.S.I. specification No. 367 and shall fully conform to the general specification given below.

3. The tenders shall be accompanied with descriptive literature, illustrations, or photographs of the fans and regulators offered, without which no tender will be considered. Tenderers shall fill in the accompanying data form and submit it along with their tenders.

4. The specification applies to ceiling fans suitable for use under Indian climatic conditions and is limited to fans having a blade sweep between 36 inches and 60 inches.

5. Quality of materials and workmanship :—All materials used in the construction of the equipment forming part of the contract are to be of the best quality and workmanship suitable for continuous operation in the tropical climate of India, where the ambient temperature may be taken as 50°C.

6. It is to be noted that the insulating materials used shall be of class "A".

7. No combustible material is to be used in the construction of the regulator, choke coils and resistances.

8. The fans shall have the highest class finish using the best quality stoved enamel.

9. Interchangeability :—Corresponding parts of similar fans, regulators, etc , are to be absolutely interchangeable in every respect.

10. Motor :—The motor shall be of the induction type and be enclosed in such a manner as to be dust-proof and to preclude the entry of water or other liquid dripping from above.

11. Blades :—The blades shall be of approved materials and finish, and so shaped as to give the maximum spread of air.

12. Bearings and Lubrication :—The bearings shall be of the ball or roller type mounted in suitable housings. The bearings are to be self-lubricating and easily renewable The fan shall be so designed as to provide an efficient and simple lubricating system which does not require to be oiled or greased within a period of at least one year. The fans shall be reasonably noiseless in operation and no grease or oil shall splash or be thrown out.

13. Starting and Regulating Switch :—The fan is to be supplied with a separate starting and regulating switch self-contained in a metal case of approved design suitable for wall-mounting. The regulator should provide for at least three speeds with an "Off" position.

14. The switch knob or operating handle is to be provided with an indicator to show the step of the regulator on which the switch is set.

15. Starting : —The fan shall be capable of starting up from rest readily when 85 per cent of the rated voltage is applied to the terminals.

16. Extent of Work:—Each fan shall be complete with all the necessary fittings and accessories including the regulator, suspension tube, ceiling canopy, insulated hanger etc., all enamelled to match the fan body.

17. Name Plate : —Each fan shall carry a metal name plate properly rivetted or securely fixed and distinctly marked with the following particulars, both on the fan and regulator : —

1 Name of manufacturer.
2 Serial Number.
3 Type Mark.
4 Voltage Range.
5 Frequency.

18. Tests :—The fans shall be tested before despatch in accordance with B.S.I. No. 367 and copies of the test certificate signed by a responsible officer of the manufactures shall be submitted.

19. Should the fans not conform to the requirements of this specification or should any fan or its fittings fail to stand satisfactorily the tests specified above, such fan or fans shall be rejected

20. Guarantee :—A guarantee shall be furnished for the satisfactory operation and also for free replacement of such of the parts that prove faulty by reason of inherent defect in design or workmanship or meterial within one year after their receipt.

21. Drawings, etc. ;— Outline plans giving all important over all dimensions of the fan and regulator, showing details of the lubricating system, etc., shall be submitted with the tender.

22. Full instructions for oiling and setting the fan to work must be given.
